THE CASE OF DR. BRIGGS.

Argument on the Constitutional Procedure Before the General Assembly.

Dr. Briggs Contends That the Appeal Has Been Wrongly Taken From Presbytery.

The Merits of the Case Not Yet Gone Into---Much Time May Be Consumed on It.

PORTLAND, Or., May 26.—The trial of Prof. Briggs, of New York, begun in in the General Assembly yesterday, was continued this morning. The church was crowded at an early hour and Dr. Briggs and Dr Birch, the head of the prosecuting committee, sat on the platform. Dr. Young, moderator, announced that each side should occupy an hour and a half discussing merely the constitntional methods, without entering at all into the merits of the question. Dr. Birch in a clear, distinct voice read his argument. He claimed that the appearing of the prosecuting committee at the assembly was strictly constitutional, although it was usual to go direct from the Presbtery to the Synod. Dr. Birch argued further that the case was one of intense interest to all Christendom, and that no other question in the history of the Christian church had been more important or touched a more vital doctrine, viz: the authority of the Holy Scripture. While Dr. Birch was reading there was funereal stillness all over the house; not a rustle was heard till he had finished.

Dr. Briggs rose at 10:10 and also read his argument. In beginning he addressed the house formally with "ladies and gentleman." This expression was greeted with cries of "no, no," as the assembly was then sitting in the form of a judical body. Dr. Briggs mentioned first his embarrassment in appearing here. He said he ought not to come here to defend the action of the Presbytery. Dr. Brown, his colleague, or Elder Thompson, of New York, he would have preferred to speak for the action of the Presbytery, but for reasons he would not narrate. He said he had many reasons which he could give, but that he would confine himself to one line of argument, namely, rule 102 of the book of discipline:—"Appeals are severally to be taken to the judiciary immediately superior to that appealed from." He argued that there were no valid reasons for entertaining the appeal and that there were insuperable reasons why it should not be entertained. If the case was a good one, he said, they should go directly to the Synod, and he insisted that grave injustice was done to the lower body by this action. Dr. Briggs next showed that the entertainment of the appeal would be an injustice to himself. It would give a judgment while no charges were pending against him. It has not yet been shown that there are errors in his address, and he appealed for justice. The assembly cannot do anything with the merits of the case yet. Turning now and then to the table at which the members of the prosecuting committee sat, he said that they were responsible for the present disturbance. If they were desirous of a speedy settlement they might have acquiesced in the action of the Presbytery while he was ill. All law protects the innocent. A defendant might desire a speedy trial but the prosecutor has no such reason for hastening the case.

Dr. Briggs said he stood to day with his Presbytery behind him, and he believed that his Synod would do the same. To entertain the appeal now would be to deprive him of a right. Still another reason was that 114 ministers and elders had signed a complaint against a decision of the Presbytery, and in behalf of himself and his co complainants he protested against any action that might deprive them of their rights. The appeal cannot be entertained, because the complaint is filed with the stated clerk of the Synod, which acts as a stay upon matters. There is also pending in the Synod a complaint against the decision as an interlocutory one. In closing he pleaded for justice, and asked the assembly to refer the case to the Synod of New York, and asked for time to submit the objections to the record.

Dr. Agnew asked whether the New York Presbytery were not the real appellee. Dr. Young decided that Dr. Briggs was and not the Presbytery.

At half-past 11 Col. John M. McCook began his reply to Dr. Briggs, and spoke until the hour of adjournment. He answered the statement of defendant that he was ill at the time of the examination of his inaugural address, by reading a letter from Dr. Briggs, saying he would decline to appear before the original committee of examination, because he understood that the committee was appointed to examine his address and not to listen to his explanation of it.

THE CRONIN MURDER.

All the Facts About That Celebrated Case Not Brought to Light.

CHICAGO, May 26.—There are likely to be sensational developments growing out of the assassination of Dr. P. A. Cronin before many weeks. Over three years have passed since the noted Irish patriot was sent to his last account. One of those convicted of complicity in his murder has died in prison, concealing his secret to the end; two more of the assassins are still behind the stone walls of Joliet, while a dozen of those indirectly concerned in the conspiracy have either died or been scattered as Ishmaelites over the four quarters of the country. In all these years, however, although conducted with great secrecy, the efforts of the Irish friends of the murdered physician to penetrate the mystery surrounding the crime, and to secure a grip on others known to have been identified with it, have never for a moment relaxed, and it is now stated that their labors are approaching a point where the case is likely to be reopened and astounding disclosures made public.

One of the most prominent members of what is known as the Cronin wing of the Irish party in this city, and whose name is known wherever a dozen Irishmen have gathered together on either side of the Atlantic, said to-day in reference to this subject: "People think we have been sleeping. On the contrary, we have been piling up fact upon fact, proof upon proof, until we have reached a point where we believe that the entire conspiracy and crime is revealed. When we think that the proper time has arrived, the facts in our possession will be placed in the hands of the State's attorney, and those facts will be strong enough to warrant the immediate arrest, not of one man or two men, but often or a dozen. Some of them, moreover, have such a local standing that the very suggestion that they are implicated in the crime will create a sensation. There are men walking the streets of Chicago to-day who are even more guilty than the men in Joliet. They think that their secret is safe as long as they live, but they are mistaken. As was stated in the dispatches from Joliet during his fatal illness, Patrick O'Sullivan would have made a clean breast of what he knew were it not for the fact, as he expressed it himself, that his statement would implicate a fellow countryman with a large family. We knew all about that, even before O'Sullivan had said so. When it was first stated that the prisoner was ill this man lost no time in making arrangement to fly the country in the event of O'Sullivan making a confession. We knew of his plans, however, and he was under surveillance morning, noon and night, until O'Sullivan had died without testifying to what he knew. The slightest effort on the part of this man to have gotten away would have led to his arrest. There are many more in the same boat. People may think that the Cronin case is a dead issue. It is not; nor will it ever be until every one of those directly connected with it is brought to justice. It will not be very long before the next phase of this case will develop a sensation almost as great as that following the disappearance and murder itself.

Grieving for His Son.

NEW YORK, May 26.—It is feared that C. Vanderbilt's mind may become unbalanced by grief for the death of his son William. He is watched continually, and at night someone sits up in his bedroom. The distracted father is utterly prostrated, and though his real condition has not been made known to the public, information comes to the press through an unquestionable source that his mind has been seriously affected by the shock. Chauncey Depew has been constantly at the Vanderbilt mansion since the young heir's death, and has been much in the company of the stricken father. In giving information to the press, Mr. Depew, however, has had little to say concerning Mr. Vanderbilt's feelings. Dr. James McLane, the family physician, when asked about the reported mental derangement of Cornelius Vanderbilt, said "Mr. Vanderbilt is much prostrated, is a great sufferer, but it is not true that he has become deranged. He slept soundly last night from exhaustion."

The Engineers Re-elect Arthur.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 25.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has re-elected Grand Past Master Arthur as chief engineer for four years. He desired to be retired, having served eighteen years, but the convention insisted upon his taking another term. A. D. Youngston was re-elected assistant grand chief engineer for two years and Harry Hayes elected second grand engineer for four years. The next international convention will be held in May, 1894, the biennial being substituted for the annual.

Gone to Toronto.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—Steveson, the Australian oarsman, has left the city for Toronto. He has accepted an engagement as instructor of a rowing club there and expects to enter for some of the regattas which will take place in Eastern waters this summer.

SLAUGHTERED INNOCENTS.

A Wretched Band of Men and Women in Russia Whose Trade Was Infanticide.

Parliament Rejects a Motion to Disestablish the Church of Scotland.

The English Railway Cars Will Not be Changed---An Electrical Invention.

LONDON, May 26.—The trials at Bilna, Russia, of over thirty men and women on charges of wholesale and systematic infanticide have been concluded. All of the prisoners have been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment in a fortress for terms ranging from six to thirty years. The number of victims has not been positively ascertained, but the bodies of sixty-five children, mostly new born, have been traced. The evidence teemed with blood-curdling disclosures as to the methods employed in getting rid of the unfortunate children. Many of them were allowed to die of cold and hunger and neglect; others were poisoned with a decoction of poppy seeds, and a large number were violently put to death, being suffocated with pillows, or packages of wadding or linen, while others were strangled by the accused or drowned in cesspools. The bodies of the murdered children were wrapped up in rags, and concealed in the woods at the first convenient opportunity. In some instances they were kept for days, both before and after their death, in chests of drawers, baskets, boxes, barrels and other receptacles filled with filthy rags, and concealed in dark and sometimes noisome underground cellars. To the ring-leader of the gang, Noskina, the murders of twenty-four infants were attributed. Two other women were charged with the murder of eighteen children each; and another was alleged to have made away with fifteen.

We Want it in Victoria.

LONDON, May 26.—An invention for utilizing one wire for three messages by Mr. Langdon Davies was announced some time since under the title of the Phonophore Telegraph, by which it was possible to transmit three messages on one wire. Time has proved the value of the system, and it has been adopted by all the important railways in the country. The most recent development is the introduction of a system by which a telephone can be used on a wire which is being simultaneously taken up by a telegraph message. This discovery has been applied within the last week to the Great Western Railway Company's block line between Southall and Brentford, a distance of three and a half miles, and the telephone is working so well that the faintest sounds are heard even when a telegraphic message is being sent on the same wire.

Will Not Learn by Experience.

LONDON, May 26.—In reply to a memorial signed by a large number of members of parliament referring to the recent outrages upon women in railroad carriages, and urging that railroads be compelled to furnish separate carriages for the female sex, the president of the Board of Trade, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, says that all passenger trains travelling twenty miles without stopping are provided under the law with means of communication, and he is of the opinion that the present arrangements are efficient, and says that he does not propose at present to suggest any alteration or extension of the law.

Hickson for Senator.

MONTREAL, May 26.—Hon. Mr. Baker, Judge Foster and Richard White have been spoken of repeatedly in connection with the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of the late Senator Stevens. The latest name is Sir Joseph Hickson, who is mentioned for the senatorship as a sort of compromise, and it was asserted on good authority that Sir Joseph would get the seat. This is not quite settled however.

The eighteenth General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada will open its sessions in the Crescent street church on Wednesday, June 8.

Sir Alex. Campbell's Funeral.

KINGSTON, May 26.—The city hall is being appropriately dressed for the lying in state of the remains of Sir Alexander Campbell at Cataraqui cemetery. The funeral services will be conducted by the Lord Bishop of Ontario and the Rev. Canon Smith, of St. George's cathedral. The return of a son from England is desired before the interment occurs, so that the remains will be vaulted for the present.

The Ontario Governorship.

TORONTO, May 26.—A good deal of interest is taken in the appointment of a successor to Sir Alex. Campbell. Hon. Geo. A. Kirkpatrick, son-in-law of Sir David Macpherson, is a popular favorite, but the names of John Carling, M. P., and Senator Frank Smith are also mentioned. There are impressions that Mr. Kirkpatrick wants it, and that the others do the same.

Ottawa News.

OTTAWA, May 26.—An electric street railway motor man, named Corrisse, eloped to Chicago with three women, leaving a young wife and family behind.

Kirkpatrick is likely to be the next Governor of Ontario.

The Church of Scotland.

LONDON, May 26.—The House of Commons yesterday rejected the resolution for the disestablishment and disendowment of the Church of Scotland.

Hauling Down the Stars and Stripes.

MONTREAL, May 26.—Col. Cole, commanding the Montreal garrison artillery, was seen this morning concerning the Queen's Birthday escapade of some of his men, who, it will be remembered, insisted on hauling down the stars and stripes which were flying from certain buildings in honor of the day. Col. Cole regrets the occurrence He called upon the United States Consul, General Knapp, to assure him that the occurrence was entirely disapproved by himself and his brother officers. Mr. Knapp will send an official report to his Government at Washington to counteract any exaggerated report of the affair that may be received by the United States press. Col. Cole has not obtained any definite information as to the guilty parties. He believes that members of another corps were also concerned in the exploit. He expects to be able to discover the culprits at the next parole and is determined at least to severely reprimand them. He has received no official instructions as yet.

BLAINE WILL ACCEPT.

The Plumed Knight Has Withdrawn His Letter of Declination.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 26.—Senator M. S. Quay when asked: "What is the presidential sentiment at Washington?" said, "It is very strong for James G. Blaine, he is the talk of the hour there and the sentiment all over the country indicates that he must be nominated."

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Senator Stanford thinks that Blaine will not be a candidate. "Mr. Blaine told me two months ago," said the Senator, "that his health would not bear the strain of a campaign."

NEW YORK, May 26.—Secretary Blaine and his wife took breakfast at the public diningroom of the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning. The ex-Governor of Massachusetts was the only person to whom the secretary accorded an interview. Seen by a representative of the United Press the ex-Governor said that Blaine will accept the nomination. There is no longer any question about it. He has reconsidered his letter to Clarkson, stating that under no circumstances would he be a candidate, and while he will not write a letter formally making such an announcement he will not decline a nomination. Massachusetts is all for Blaine. There appears to be a Blaine cyclone.

Condensed American Dispatches.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—A dispatch to the Merchants' Exchange from Ventura says that a schooner has arrived there this morning from Seattle and reports having seen the ship St. Charles on May 18. The ship had 11 feet of water in her hold and was in a useless condition. The captain of the schooner set fire to her before proceeding on his way.

ST. LOUIS, May 26.—The river continues to fall slowly and business is gradually resuming. The railways are showing signs of life, the schools have re opened and the work of affording relief to sufferers by floods is going on rapidly.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 26.—The first Democratic colored convention ever held in any Northern state will meet in this city this afternoon. The organization is known as the New York State Cleveland League, and was formed in 1882, when Cleveland ran for governor.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—This is the final day of the convention of the National Editorial Association, and this evening the members leave for their homes. This afternoon the proceedings will be brought to a close by the election of officers.

LULLTOWN, Ark., May 25.—A large number of people have been rescued from their flooded homes. A colored family of nine persons and three other colored men have been drowned.

BUFFALO, May 26.—John Fitzhun, convicted last week of murder, was sentenced to be electrocuted. Fitzhun collapsed and fell to the floor when sentence was being pronounced.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Flag ship Chicago arrived from Montevideo.

PITTSBURG, May 26.—The American Federation of Labor has come out flatly in favor of opening the World's Fair on Sunday. Samuel Compers, the president, has addressed a circular to all the trades unions in the United States to use the influence they may have to that end.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—In the House Mr. Loud, of California, offered an amendment appropriating $160,000 to prevent the unlawful entry of Chinese into the United States, by the appointment of suitable officers to enforce the laws in relation thereto, and for returning to China all Chinese found unlawfully here. Geary of California, said the appropriation of $50,000 in the bill was to provide for the registry of Chinamen and thus remove the necessity for patrolling the frontier. Holman, (Democrat) of Indiana, offered an amendment to the bill appropriating $60,000 to carry out the provisions of the recent exclusion act in lieu of $75,000 in the bill to prevent the unlawful entry of Chinamen, which was apopted. Loud's amendment was lost.

California Prohibitionists.

FRESNO, Cal., May 26.—The State Prohibition Convention adopted a platform this morning. It favors the prohibition of liquor except for medicinal and mechanical purposes; educational qualification for the suffrage, no man voting who cannot read or write English; Government ownership and operation of railroads; currency issued by Government alone; gold and silver treasury notes, not exceeding $80 per capita, good for all debts; stringent immigration laws are recommended, excluding all undesirable classes; extended time of residence for naturalization and no man to vote until his naturalization is complete. The convention favors the government building and operating the Nicaragua canal, and election of U. S. senators by direct vote. Margaret E. Parker, president of the W.C.T.U. of Great Britain, addressed the convention. Nearly $5000 was raised for the state campaign. Each congressional district will nominate its candidates.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The Removal of Old Buildings Discussed---Aid Asked for Roslyn Sufferers.

More Funds to Finish the Sewerage ---The Wards By-law---The View Street Drainage.

The board of aldermen met last night in regular weekly business session. Present: Mayor Beaven in the chair, Ald. Hunter, Munn, Bragg, Lovell, Styles, Baker, Humber, Hall and McKillican.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From James Lane, chairman of the relief committee of Roslyn, Washington state, asking subscriptions for the Roslyn sufferers and hoping the citizens would do all they could. Twenty-three widows and 93 orphans were left destitute by the explosion.

Ald. Munn moved to refer the matter to the mayor and finance committee to act as they thought best.

His worship said something more explicit was necessary where expenditure of money was involved. The corporation had no right to vote money in this manner. A sum was set aside for municipality sufferers, which could not be used without special authority. Ald. Munn's motion was out of order. A subscription list could be opened by the mayor or anybody else.

Ald. Baker moved that a subscription list be opened at the city hall in aid of the sufferers. Carried.

MOVING OLD WOODEN BUILDINGS.

To His Worship the Mayor and Board of Aldermen:

GENTLEMEN,—I am desired by the Board of Directors of the above-named company to respectfully draw your attention to the by-law regulating the removal of wooden structures within the city limits (and to a certain extent within the fire limits of this city), but more particularly at this moment to a wooden building in process of removal, known as the "London Harmony," situate at the corner of Broad and Johnson. The manager and myself have already waited upon His Worship and fully explained the disabilities and loss under which we shall labor and suffer if such removal is permitted without a full and careful consideration of all the surrounding circumstances and contingences, and, therefore, probably details would be a repetition, except in so far as the location of said building is concerned, which, I may say, is at the corner of Johnson and Broad. I may urge the following points for the consideration of your honorable body in connection with what may be indisputably designated as a real and prospective "menace" to the Telephone Company and its patrons:

1. That the hauling of this building through the streets will seriously interfere with the business and privileges of this company as well as that of the "Victoria Electric Co." (of which I am also manager and director), by the breaking or removal of the company's lines and thereby become an obstruction to the business and commercial convenience of the citizens.

2. That the representatives of these companies believe the building in question, through insufficient consideration no doubt, to have been very much over valued, and that, therefore, the by-law (No. 144) regulating such removal is being pratically and seriously contravened.

3. That they have also reason to believe that the valuation was not made by the proper officer, viz: City Surveyor, as enjoined in clause 26 of by-law referred to, and that, therefore, the permission granted (presumably by the street committee in writing) and alleged to be held by the contractor is irregular and consequently abortive.

4. That the permit of whatever nature and kind held by the contractor (if so held) has lapsed by effluxion of time and does not, therefore, come within the true meaning and intent of the expression, "Forthwith," found in clause 28 of said by-law, and has, therefore, no effect.

5. That the building referred to having been drawn into the streets without the necessary and proper authority, and in violation of by-law governing the "removal and placing" of buildings of not less value that $750, becomes subject to the provisions of clause 29 of before-mentioned by-law. We understand that the contract for removal added to cost price of same does not exceed $325, when finally "placed." A re-consideration of the whole matter is earnestly asked for as the best means of averting expensive litigation.

I am, gentlemen,
Yours respectfully,
E. CROW BAKER,
Manager and Director.

N. B.—On behalf of "Victoria Electric Company, Limited," as well.

Ald. Baker thought it time the council prevented such structures being moved about the streets.

Ald. Styles concurred. He had seen the communication requesting permission to move the building; it was referred to the street inspector, who valued the building at $1000. The owner had complied with all the provisions of the by-law. He (the speaker) would like to see a stop put to wooden buildings being moved through the city. The documents were in possession of the building inspector.

His worship quoted the by-law to elucidate the question. No building could be moved if it were valued at less than $750.

The mayor said the building had been sold for $40.

Ald. Styles said he did not care if it had been sold for $5; the city's officer had valued it at $1000.

His worship—Not the proper officer.

Ald. Humber said a mistake had evidently been made. Somebody had got the $10 fee. It was not right to allow buildings to be removed and the company's wires cut at their own expense. This building cannot be moved where it is going in five days. The best thing would be to let the whole matter drop. It would injure business in the locality it was destined for; in case of fire it would be very dangerous.

Ald. Baker thought the chairman of the street committee and building inspector were not being used rightly. He moved that the communication be laid on the table.

The mayor said he did not think the proper authority had been given.

Ald. Hunter said that according to the letter of the by-law proper permission had not been given. Ald. Styles was an energetic and efficient councillor, especially in his street committee work, and he had never done anything of his own volition that could be taken exception to. He moved that the communication be tabled.

Ald. Hall seconded Ald. Munn's motion to refer to the streets committee, the committee to be given power to take such action as they may deem fit. Carried.

From Thomas Hooper, architect, asking permission to extend the foundation walls of the Adelphi building under the sidewalk, enclosing plans. Referred to the city engineer, building inspector and streets committee to report at next meeting.

From E. A. Wilmot, respecting a communication about a drain on View street referred back to him for report, giving an estimate of laying the required drain and stating that the cost would counterbalance advantages otherwise gained.

Ald. McKillican made an eloquent appeal for a drain on View street in view of the approaching sultry weather.

Ald. Lovell supported his brother alderman and said serious consequences must ensue if the drain were not laid.

Ald. McKillican moved to refer the matter back to the streets committee and city engineer for reconsideration and report as to the cheapest way of draining the View street district. Carried.

From H. Walker Walby, saying he is in possession of the only correct map of the Humboldt street property referred to in a former communication and offering a correct copy of same for $100. Referred to the street committee.

From the Sabiston Lithograph Company, Montreal, regarding a write up of the chief cities of the Dominion, and asking particulars of this municipality. Request granted and the clerk instructed to give the desired information.

MORE MONEY REQUIRED.

To His Worship the Mayor and Board of Aldermen:

GENTLEMEN,—I have the honor, by direction of the Sewerage Commission, to inform you that it is estimated, provided no unforeseen increase of cost in the completion of the outlet works and main sewers arises, that a nearly sufficient sum will be left on hand to build the sewer past the Five Sisters' Block and as far as the new Driard. The amount estimated to be on hand for the purpose is $1,955.09, and the cost may probably run from $1750 to $2250. While the Commissioners are anxious to construct this very important sewer at once, they desire to point out, should your honorable body approve of such action, that the Council may be called on at short notice to provide a small additional sum for the construction of this very necessary sewer.

This estimate, however, does not provide for the completion of the pipe contract, which originally amounted to $54,011.41, of which $30,743.33 has been paid. The Commissioners would again call your attention to the urgency of providing funds for the continuance of the works, as suggested in the report of Engineer dated 23rd inst., since the stoppage of the work would eventually entail upon the city a heavy additional cost.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,
W. J. DOWLER,
Secretary Sewerage Commissioners.

Ald. McKillican said he had informed the commissioners that a by-law was going before the ratepayers for more funds for the sewerage works.

Ald. Humber said many owners of large new buildings just erected or being erected are applying for sewerage conveniences. If one gets it the others will have to. The whole system should have been let complete. The owners of those large buildings could not be expected to build private sewers. The Five Sisters block and the new Driard certainly should get what they desired.

Ald. Hall seconded the motion of Ald. Styles to refer to the sewerage committee to report at next meeting.

Ald. Baker and Lovell urged immediate action.

Ald. Hunter said the city would be in an awkward fix if something were not soon done. He advised the aldermen to bend all their energies to carry out to a successful termination the sewerage system of the city. Very little more than the $1600 left from the expenditure on the outfall would be required to render the present system complete. The request of the owners of the Driard should be complied with; if it was not, the building would have to be closed for some months. The sooner a start was made the better.

The Mayor said if he had had anything to do with the matter the Five Sisters block and the new Driard sewerage work would have been done long ago. It could have been done in the three months the council had been in office.

The motion carried.

MARKET MATTERS.

From E. Johnson, asking that two of the market chandeliers be shortened to prevent them being damaged. Referred to the market committee with power to act.

From Richards & Cuthbert, thanking the council for permission to hold auction sales in the market building, and asking if a by-law dealing with market days, live stock, etc., were in existence or would be introduced. Referred to the market committee to report. A meeting of the committee will be held to-morrow at 10 a.m. to meet the writers.

From the residents of Sumas street, a petition asking that the thoroughfare be made more passable, which it is not at present. Included in the street committee's report.

From F. J. Claxton, complaining of certain persons, corporation workmen he suspects, digging a trench near his house which threatens to undermine his fence. Street committee to carry out the by-law.

NEW JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Moved by Ald. Lovell, seconded by Ald. Hunter, that two new J.'s P. be appointed to sit on the Licensing Board according to section "K" of the by-law.

Ald. Hunter thought the council competent to make the appointment at once, and seconded the motion which carried.

Ald. Munn moved that Messrs. T. Shotbolt and W. J. Dalby be appointed.

His Worship said it would be better to find out if the nominees would serve before making the appointment. Mr. Shakespeare had said he would act again. Laid over. The motion was quashed.

REPORTS.

The finance committee reported recommending payment of accounts amounting to $15.25. Adopted.

The street committee reported on several street improvements requested and recommending course of action. Adopted, the recommendations to be carried out.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Ald. Styles gave notice that at next meeting he would introduce a resolution to amend by-law 144 clause 25 regulating the erection, alteration or enlargement of wooden buildings, also regulating the removal of wooden buildings.

The finance committee further reported payment of accounts, amounting to $11. Adopted.

BY-LAWS.

The second reading of the Victoria & Sidney Railway by-law was laid over until next meeting on motion of Ald. Munn.

The by-law to repeal the ward by-law of 1890, and make the number of wards three, was read a first time.

Ald. Lovell explained the reasons for creating these wards. If divided into three wards the assessed valuation would be: James Bay, or south ward, $6,500,000; Yates street, or central ward, $6,500,000; Johnson street, or north ward, $6,000,000, total, $19,000,000. It had been suggested to name the three wards the north, central and south wards.

On the motion to read a second time Ald. Munn thought it might have been better had the council been consulted in the matter. The central ward was a mere wedge dividing the north from the south. He thought the central ward should have included a larger area of outlying portions of the city and that a better division than this could have been made.

Ald. Styles was in accord with Ald. Munn and thought the second reading should be left over until the next meeting to give the aldermen a better chance to grasp the situation.

Ald. Hunter counselled great deliberation a matter of such importance as this. He had had no chance to read the by-law. It came rather suddenly upon one to have this map and measure thrust forward for immediate decision. The centre ward, owing to its compactness could be canvassed very easily, which was a great thing.

Ald. Lovell had no wish to "rush" the measure though he had taken great pains with the by-law.

Ald. Baker advocated a special meeting to discuss the by-law and asked his worship to call one.

The second reading was laid over until next Wednesday evening.

Ald. Hunter introduced the water rate by-law, 1893. Read a first time.

The mayor produced an account from Mr. J. Haggerty, contractor, for $355.25.

Ald. Bragg moved that the bill be laid on the table a week, that Mr. Haggerty might have an opportunity to address the board on the subject. Carried.

The mayor said the council would have to meet on Friday to transact some important busines. The hour was set at 8 p.m.

Council then adjourned at 10:30.

THE LAST DAY'S RACES.

A Large Crowd Attends Yesterday's Races at the Driving Park.

Dart and One-Eyed Johnny Have a Stubborn Fight for the 2:40 Class Purse.

The spring meeting of the Victoria Jockey Club, the most successful ever held in Victoria, came to a close yesterday evening. There was, contrary to expectations, just as large a crowd present as on the previous days. The shower that came down about noon laid the dust, and put the track in fine order, and no doubt kept a few people in town who otherwise would have been present. But the members of the club were satisfied, everything pointing to another successful day's racing.

In the 2:40 class race One-eyed Johnny was the favorite, even after Dart had won two heats. He did not deceive his admirers either and got down to work in the third, fourth and fifth heats, winning the race. Neither Kitty nor Fleta was in the race after the second heat, the former breaking right along and the latter being too stiff to trot. Both One-eyed Johnny and Dart trotted steadily and well. The drivers were changed several times, Adamson being placed behind Johnny in place of A. H. Knight, after the second heat, and Hickey taking Dart from Harry Stone in the fifth heat.

The second race on the programme, the running half mile and repeat, was delayed for some time, the judges sending one of the jockeys back to his stable to get his proper colors on. Jim Murphy, with young Murphy on his back, looked well, and, like his rider, was quite cool, while the others were dancing around scoring. He was the favorite in the betting. Johnny Hooker, however, made it hot for him throughout the race, although Gannon, his rider had a good deal of work to keep him away from the fence. Little Dave was badly ridden and Irish Mike was too slow.

In the second heat the other horses started without Murphy, but in the third he was allowed to run and thus won the race. Mr. Knight, owner of Hooker, objected to this, claiming that Murphy should have been distanced.

The Indian pony race brought out four starters, Blackie, Dixie, Lucy and Fanny. Blackie looked well and soon showed that he felt the same way, by taking the lead and keeping it to the end without a struggle. Time 2:13 2-5.

The novelty race, the principal event of the day, brought out five horses. Jim Murphy was selling favorite at the pools, but those who had placed their money on him, dropped their chins when they saw that Carlton was on him in place of Murphy. The conditions were: First at the quarter to get 20 per cent of the purse, first at the half 20 per cent., first at three-quarters 30 per cent., and first under the wire 30 per cent. Purse $100 with entrance money added. Leap Year got the quarter money, Murphy the half and three-quarters, and Hooker the mile.

There were no entries for the Shetland pony race.

SUMMARIES.

First race, trotting and pacing, 2:40 class. Purse, $250.

M. G. Terhune's One-eyed Johnny, b. g., aged, Knight and Adamson	2 2 1 1 1
J. Meunier's Dart, br. g., aged, Stone and Heckey	1 1 2 2 2
W. G. Stevenson's Fleta F., bk. m., 7, Adamson	4 0 0 0 0
H. D. Helmcken's Kitty, b. m., 8, Hickey	3 3 3 3 0

FIRST HEAT—After scoring several times a good start was given, Dart and Fleta taking the lead. Johnny broke, but got to his feet quickly and went after the leads, Dart also closing the gap between him and Fleta. The latter broke and both Dart and Johnny passed her, the latter trying his best to catch Dart, but it was no use, the black pacer keeping his place and coming under the wire three lengths ahead, with Johnny second, Kitty third and Fleta fourth. Time, 2.46¼.

SECOND HEAT—Dart took the lead closely followed by Johnny, with Kitty and Fleta in the rear. At the quarter the leaders were neck and neck. Dart was a little in the lead at the half and increased it at the three-quarters, where Johnny broke. Fleta broke badly and went off the track; Kitty also breaking frequently. Dart and Johnny were again going double on the stretch, the black pacer pulling out and winning a close race in 2.43.

THIRD HEAT—Adamson was put behind Johnny this heat by the judges. Dart again got away ahead, Johnny, however, soon closed up and traveled with Dart from the quarter to half, Kitty being five lengths in the rear. At the half, Johnny went ahead, and the pacer lost his feet, giving the leader an advantage which he did not lose, although Dart came after him for all he was worth. Johnny won by three lengths in 2.38¾.

FOURTH HEAT.—Dart and Kitty broke before reaching the quarter, and Johnny got ten lengths in the lead. Stone pushed Dart and the gap was closed up, but Johnny trotting steadily won by a dozen lengths in 2.38½.

FIFTH HEAT.—Dart and Johnny were only ones to start in this heat. The latter got the lead but Dart soon pulled up and and at the half they were together. At the three-quarters Johnny had an advantage of two lengths, Dart trotting steadily under the whip. Just before coming into the streach Dart broke and Johnny came along steadily, winning by three lengths. Time, 2.39½.

Second race, half mile and repeat. Purse, $175.

Frank Campbell's Jim Murphy, Murphy	1 3 1
A. H. Knight's Johnny Hooker	2 1 2
L. W. Munro's Little Dave	3 2 3
G. W. Black's Irish Mike	4 0 0

Time—53 3-5, 55, 54.

FIRST HEAT.—Murphy got off ahead, Little Dave close behind him. At the quarter Dave got the lead but soon lost his place and the race was left to Murphy and Hooker, Mike remaining in the rear. Murphy won by two lengths in 53 3-5, Hooker second.

SECOND HEAT.—Little Dave and Hooker started without Murphy. Hooker had it all to himself and won in 55.

THIRD HEAT.—Hooker and Murphy started alone. The former had the lead when he went to the fence, Gannon being unable to get him in place again until Murphy was a long way ahead and taking it easy. Murphy won in 54.

THIRD RACE—Noveity one mile dash—Purse $100 with entrance money added. Divided as follows:—20 per cent. at ¼ and ½ mile; 30 per cent at ¾ and mile.

The entries were Knight's Johnny Hooker, Gannon; Campbell's Jim Murphy, Carlton; Johnny Allan, Russell Coats, Little Dave, Ashley; Leap Year, W. Millington. Murphy, Hooker and Allan went around thinking they had been started, which gave the others an advantage. When they finally got off, Millington took Leap Year to the front, and won the quarter money. Murphy and Hooker staying together just behind the little mare. After passing the quarter they went to the front, Murphy winning the half and three quarter money and Hooker the mile.

JUBILEE HOSPITAL BOARD

Dissatisfied With the City's Vote of $1000—Will Try for More.

The Board of Directors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital held a meeting last night in the Board of Trade rooms, there being present Messrs. Joshua Davies in the chair, Wilson, Flummerfelt, Bannerman, Brown, Hayward, Chudley and McQuade.

A communication from the city clerk, was read, stating that in reply to the request of the board, the mayor had been empowered to fix a date for a conference with the council, to consider the hospital funds.

Mr. Hayward called attention to the fact that in the City Council estimates adopted only $1000 had been appropriated for hospital purposes, and expressed the opinion that the board should make an effort to get this amount raised to $2000 that the Government grant of $2000 might be secured.

The chairman agreed with Mr. Hayward, and said he did not feel like accepting the grant. If the city expected the hospital to care for the sick poor, it must be prepared to support them. If the city only gave $1000 the board should send the city the bill for the care of the sick, which he was sure would exceed $2000.

The secretary stated that the bill amounted to $2400.

Mr. Flummerfelt suggested that the board suspend action till after the conference with the council.

Mr. Wilson said the council understood that the hospital would not get $2000 grant from the Government when the $1000 was voted, and some of the councillors said there was no hope of getting the vote increased.

Mr. Chudley advocated regular collections from large establishments. The Albion Iron Works had contributed $28 on one pay day, and no nickels in the collection either.

Mr. Flummerfelt did not like the idea of asking the working men for too much.

The chairman stated that if the hospital was considered as a provincial institution the citizens of Victoria could only get in on an order from the council, and the city would have to pay the bill.

Mr. Chudley thought extreme measures should be avoided, and favored the suggestion to endeavor to get the vote from the city raised to $2000, which would ensure $2000 more from the government.

It was finally decided to thank the council for having arranged a conference, and the secretary was instructed to request the fixing of an early date, as the board's term expires in June.

Mr. Chudley reported the bills for the month of March, to amount to $1,546.47, exclusive of salaries. The salary account for April was $505, and there was a sum of $262.50 interest on mortgage. The supplies for the month totalled $1367.51.

In answer to Mr. Hayward Mr. Chudley stated that it took $23,000 annually to run the establishment. The hospital expenditure exceeded the income by about $500 per month. The income from pay patients averaged $500 per month. The hospital debt was about $7500.

It was agreed to have collection boxes placed in the various large places of business, and endeavor to establish regular weekly contributions.

On behalf of the visiting committee Mr. Flummerfelt reported ordering certain necessary repairs.

The chairman reported some changes in the infectious wards, and also improvements to the grounds.

After further business of a routine nature the meeting adjourned.

There's a patent medicine which is not a patent medicine—paradoxical as that may sound. It's a discovery! It's golden discovery of medical science! the the medicine for you—tired, run-down, exhausted, nerve-wasted men and women; for you sufferers from diseases of skin or scalp, liver or lungs—its chance is with every one, its season always, because it aims to purify the fountain of life—the blood—upon which all such diseases depend. The medicine is Dr. Price's Golden Medical Discovery. The makers of it have enough confidence in it to sell it on trial. That is—you can get it from your druggist, and if it dosen't do what it's claimed to do, you can get your money back, every cent of it.

That's what its makers call taking the risk of their words.

Tiny, little, surgar-coated granules, are what Dr. Price's Pleasant Pellets are. The best Liver Pills ever invented; active, yet mild in operation; cure sick and bilious headaches. One a dose. tu-th-sa-wky

KASLO CITY

The Centre of the Great Kootenay Mining District in B.C.

This young and thriving City is situated on Kootenay Lake at the mouth of Kaslo River, within close proximity to the famous Kaslo and Slocan mines.

The discoveries during the present year of numerous mines of remarkably rich ore and great width on Kaslo river and east of Slocan Lake are well known to the public. They have attracted the attention of capitalists and miners all over the continent, and there is no question that these mines, which are tributary to KASLO CITY, will receive more attention than those of any other section of Kootenay.

A spacious hotel has been built for the accommodation of travelers. Stores and other buildings have also been erected. The townsite is being cleared and streets graded so as to forward the large amount of building that will be in progress as soon as material is secured for construction. A trail has been built to the mines, which will be replaced by a wagon road as soon as the work can be prosecuted. The grade to the mines is an easy one. An application for a charter to build a railway line into the mines from Kaslo will be made at the coming session of the Legislature. Everything is being done that circumstances will permit to give easy access to the mines and furnish supplies for the miners. KASLO CITY will have a large population this summer. It will become the supply depot for the richest mining section yet discovered in British Columbia. Unlike many mountain towns, it is most favorably situated on a gentle slope from the waters of a sheltered bay on Kootenay Lake, and is supplied for domestic and manufacturing purposes, by a large stream of pure cold water.

If you wish to participate in the profits that enchanced values will bring don't fail to invest in Kaslo City. Lots are on sale at the offices of all the Leading Real Estate Brokers in the Province.

AN APPEAL

MR. MAYOR AND BOARD OF ALDERMEN:

While settling up last year's accounts, please give your undivided attention to the unsettled state of the weather.

You might cause an awning to be stretched over a part of the Park so as to protect the flowers from the wind, and also allow ladies and children to enjoy a rest with comfort.

And the streets should be more often sprinkled, so as to prevent the dust from injuring the many novelties that the undersigned now displays.

And as the Government is about to erect a new building fronting on Birdcage Walk, that a By-Law be placed before the ratepayers asking for a loan to pave Government street, and to build a retaining wall along the Bridge, thus giving employment to the many willing hands who are at present unable to obtain work.

That the question now agitating the public mind is whether the hats, parasols, gloves, mantles and dress fabrics now shown at the Lansdowne House, 86 Yates street, are excelled by any in the city, will be left to your honorable body at your leisure to decide.

And your petitioner will ever pray.

ECONOMY COMES HARD.

Quebec, we are told, is in a bad way financially. Its debt has grown under the extravagant regime of Mercier until it now totals $24,000,000, while its revenue falls far short of meeting the annual expenditure. Treasurer Hall seems to see no source of relief except in direct taxation, a measure which will be extremely unpopular with the people. Yet, though the province is groaning under the heavy load of debt and taxation, it persists in retaining its useless and expensive Legislative Council. The other day the House of Assembly, which might have been expected to support any step in the direction of economy, voted down by 44 to 19 a motion to abolish this useless branch of the Legislature. Premier Taillon in speaking against the motion offered the peculiar argument that "it was useless to amend the constitution for the sake of $25,000, which would certainly be spent elsewhere." When this is the new Government's idea of economy it would be vain to hope that there will be any great degree of improvement in the management of the finances under its care. There are other expenditures which might be stopped or reduced, but the Government is held back by the fear of offending supporters. There can be no doubt that Quebec is in a bad way. Many of its people have been taught under Tory instruction to regard the public treasury, whether Dominion or Provincial, as legitimate prey, and any serious departure from this teaching now will cause an upheaval. The tax burden and the tithe burden are combining to crush the habitants, who on the other hand are hedged in by the McKinley tariff. No wonder there is a huge exodus from the province.

THOSE FREE TRADE DELEGATES.

An article in the North British Agriculturist affords a clearer explanation of the Government's conduct in suppressing the reports of the British farmer delegates, Messrs. Davey and McQueen. Sir Charles Tupper wrote as follows to Mr. McQueen:—

The Minister of Agriculture has formed the opinion that your report does not do adequate justice to the agricultural resources of the Maritime Provinces of Canada, and the advantages they offer to emigrants, and considers, therefore, that its dissemination in this country would be calculated to mislead, especially in the case of those who have no other information on the subject with which it deals.

The article in the Agriculturist quotes both Messrs. McQueen and Davey as stating that they did not believe that their reports would be published, because they "had not seen their way to advise anyone to emigrate to the Maritime Provinces of the Dominion, particularly so long as the present heavy tariffs on imported goods were continued." The Agriculturist expresses its opinion thus: "It is a regrettable circumstance that the Canadian Government should have decided to suppress the report prepared by the two delegates who were specially deputed to examine and report as to the agricultural resources of these provinces. Both the delegates are gentlemen of unimpeachable honor and unquestioned ability, and the suppression of their report, therefore, will be apt to create a bad impression. All the other delegates who reported in the previous year upon the other provinces of Canada had an excellent account to give of these other provinces, and it is surely desirable that not only the truth, but also the whole truth, should be known about the agricultural resources of the Dominion." So far as the effect on intending emigrants is concerned, the suppression of the reports is quite as bad as their publication, however derogatory they may be. The fact is now generally known in the Old Country that the Canadian Government is afraid to let these reports be spread abroad, and, as the Agriculturist says, it is not well to appear afraid of facing the truth.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The London Free Press, which may be supposed to receive more or less direct inspiration from Hon. Mr. Carling, hints that the hon. gentleman will not succeed Sir. Alexander Campbell as Lieut.-Governor of Ontario. The chief reason is thus stated:—"The active work of the Agricultural Department, however, is more in accord with his purposes in public life, and his usefulness in that field of administration has been distinguished and well recognised." We are more inclined to think that "Honest John" will hold on to his stolen seat chiefly because he and his party friends know it would be almost impossible to steal it again in the event of a new election, even with Judge Elliott's assistance.

The Liberal members at Ottawa have been once more exposing the scandalous policy of the Government in using public works and buildings as bribes to constituencies. The postoffice at Laprairie is an illustrative case. This little village of 1200 inhabitants will have a postoffice costing, when it is finished, $16,000. The whole revenue derived from Laprairie postoffice last year was only $432, while the annual interest charge on the cost of construction will be $1400. The motive for the job is of course the "squaring" of the village and the whole constituency in the interest of the Government. This, as Mr. Laurier pointed out, is in addition to the gerrymandering of the county, so Laprairie ought to be tolerably well fixed. In the meantime, while this little village is getting its $16,000 postoffice, Victoria is obliged to put up with an antequated building which does not afford the necessary accommodation, though the extent of the business and the revenue call for some improvement.

Nicholas Flood Davin seems to have perpetrated a good joke on himself, over which there has been great laughter in Ottawa. He was billed to speak at a meeting in Stratford in behalf of the Tory candidate in North Perth. The Ottawa Citizen next morning had a circumstantial report of the meeting, according to which the chairman introduced Mr. Davin as one too well known to require introduction. He delivered a "happy speech." He showed the audience a cartoon depicting Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright in a boat, whereat a voice from the audience exclaimed "It's a pity they were not both drowned." The speech was interspersed plentifully with "cheers" and "laughter," and Mr. Davin sat down amid "great cheering." It turned out afterwards that the Citizen's report had been written out by Mr. Davin before he left Ottawa for Stratford, and that the prospective meeting was never held. Wherefore the Regina bard has been the subject of unmerciful ridicule.

TO SUCCEED PROFESSOR FREEMAN.

How Oxford Has Reversed the Verdict of Nearly Half a Century Ago.

Time works wonders. In 1848 James Anthony Froude's "Nemesis of Faith" appeared and created a decided sensation, as it marked the defection of that gentleman from the teachings of the Church of England. The "Nemesis of Faith" was in the nature of a protest against the reverence of the Established church for what Mr. Froude designated the "Hebrew Mythology," and it received severe condemnation from the authorities of the University of Oxford. In fact, so great was the storm which Froude's book brought down upon him that he deemed it prudent to resign his fellowship, and he was also obliged to forfeit a teachership in Tasmania. Now, after the lapse of more than forty years, he has been appointed to the chair of modern history at Oxford, made vacant by the recent death of the distinguished historian, Professor Edward A. Freeman.

JAMES ANTHONY FROUDE.
[From his latest photograph.]

Many persons will remember the visit of Mr. Froude to America in the autumn of 1872. His lectures on the relations between England and Ireland delivered during that trip excited considerable discussion, the greater part of it of an exceedingly acrimonious nature. His argument was, in substance, that the Irish people were themselves responsible for their country's prostration because of local quarrels. Mr. Froude was once for a very short time the editor of Fraser's Magazine, and he has been a prolific writer for half a century. One of his most important literary works is "Thomas Carlyle: A History of the First Forty Years of His Life."

Mr. Froude was born in Dartington, Devonshire, England, April 23, 1818. His father was archdeacon of Totnes. In 1842 he carried off the chancellor's prize at Oxford. This was the first indication of the brilliant work of which he has since proved himself capable.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Judge Truaxe, of the Supreme Court, this morning dismissed the action of Anna Dickinson against the members of the Republican National Committee of 1888, on the ground that a contract made for lectures in aid of the election of Harrison was illegal. After hearing the verdict, Miss Dickinson said: "I shall at once begin action; they cheated me out of $12,000 and my expenses once before, after a long campaign in the Molly Maguire districts of Pennsylvania, where no man dared speak, they shall not cheat me this time."

Divisional Court.

The case of the Mount Royal Milling Company vs. Kwong Mah Yuen and James, garnishee, will come up for hearing in the Divisional Court to-morrow morning.

A New Commander.

It is mooted among Salvation Army soldiers here that Commander Rees, who is at the head of the forces in Canada, will be recalled shortly and his place taken by Henry Booth, son of General Booth.

The Evidence Arrives.

The evidence taken before the commission in England, bearing on the case of Regina vs. E. M. Johnson, has arrived and is now in the hands of the registrar. The case comes up in the assize court on Monday morning.

Valise Found.

A large black leather valise was picked up in front of the Hudson Bay store last night and left at the provincial police court for an owner. The valise was lying in the street for some hours before it was handed over to the police.

The Kalooloo Disqualified.

It was learned last evening that the Kalooloo, which won the sailing race for eighteen foot boats, was over the required length, and the prize will therefore be awarded to the Swallow, which came in a couple of seconds behind the Kalooloo.

A Hard Fight.

Several members of the fire department, with the Deluge engine and 600 feet of hose, were out on the Dallas road last evening fighting a fire on the beach. The wind was blowing towards the residences, which were in danger from flying sparks.

Will Return the Match.

The members of the gun clubs who took part in the match with the Tacomas, speak very highly of the fair and gentlemanly action of the latter during the tournament. The Tacoma boys are a fine lot of fellows. The Victorians will go to Tacoma to shoot a return match.

Another Addition.

Davidson Bros., of the Five Sisters' block, Government street, have secured the services of Mr. E. F. Robertson, an expert manufacturing jeweler, to take charge of the manufacturing department of their business. As Mr. Robertson is from a large West End, London, Eng., house, there is no doubt of his thorough ability as a manufacturing jeweler. *

Typos' Holiday.

Three printers went sailing to-day on a cruise around the San Juan group of Islands, in the sloop Oddfellow, and will be gone a week or so. C. F. Mitchell acts as captain, Geo. Anderson "galley" slave. W. Miller will undertake to keep the "sea box" well supplied with all "sorts" of supplies. No "cases" of any kind were taken on board, and the typos expect to have a lively holiday.

A Fallen Bridge.

The bridge near Turpel's shipyard, on the footroad leading through the Indian reserve to the Craigflower road, has collapsed. It has been in a shaky condition for some time, and it seemed to be nobody's business to repair it. A good many people are lamenting over this consequent blockade of the short cut which saved them a long journey round by Point Ellice.

Old Friends With New Faces.

A good illustration of the wisdom of saving up old newspapers, especially if they contain any literary "phat," is to be seen in the resuscitated Detroit Free fables being published in the Colonist at present. Those ante-bellum coruscations of houmor go pretty well now-a-days, just as Stilton cheese is seldom appreciated when it is fresh, which is a hint to the fable plagiarist, who might occasionally trot out something fresh.

For Trial on Monday.

On Monday the case of Winslow Hall et al vs. Cobaugh and Durkin, will come up for trial. The plaintiffs claims that they and Cobaugh composed the Kootenay Bonanza Mining Company. The articles of agreement made it necessary that no one member of the company could sell his share without consulting the other members of the company. They claim Cobaugh violated this agreement by selling to Durkin.

Died of Consumption.

Mr. J. Nichol, of Avalon road, was yesterday called upon to mourn the death of his wife, Annie Nichol, who died of consumption. The deceased went to California some time ago in search of health, but the change did not do her any good and she came home to die. She was a native of Somersetshire, England, aged 33 years. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2 o'clock from the family residence, No. 8, Avalon road, and at 3 o'clock from Christ Church cathedral.

The Parents Found.

The police have, after several days' search, found the mother of the baby found in a box in the old cemetery on Quadra street. She is Mrs. Flesh, wife of Charlie Flesh, well known along the water front. She went to the police station this morning and stated that the baby was hers. It was still-born and her husband being out of town, she gave it to strangers to bury. Both the mother and father will be called as witnesses at the inquest, which was yesterday adjourned for six days.

Don't Delay.

Procrastination is the thief of time and often prevents people from getting bargains when they are obtainable. The finest line of chenille curtains are now being offered by Sehl, Hastie & Erskine at prices unheard of before, for similar goods, and they must be sold to clear.

He Was No Spendthrift.

Chief Sheppard received word to-day from W. A. Pinkerton, of Pinkerton's Detective Agency, that F. N. Ewers, who a short time ago absconded from New York city with $11,350 embezzled from Austin, Corbin & Co., and who it was thought came west with the intention of making a home here, was caught in the east with $10,000 of the stolen money still in his possession.

She Was Not Robbed.

On the 24th Chief Sheppard received word from a lady in the city that she had been robbed of a gold watch and chain. The chief detailed a man to enquire into the matter, and especially to keep a close watch (no joke) on a Chinaman employed in the house. To-day the chief received word from the lady that she had found the missing timepiece in her woodshed, where she had dropped it. The policeman whose time was lost did not swear.

A Race Arranged.

Yesterday a race to take place next Wednesday, was arranged between Alex. MacLean, Westminster's champion oarsman, and G. A. Richardson, of this city, for $200. The boats used will be 18 feet skiffs, MacLean's to be a stationary seat and Richardson's a sliding seat. The course is from the James Bay boathouse around Deadman's Island and return. Dan McIntosh will act as starter and Muirhead, Peterson's backer, as referee. A deposit has been put up, each party backing himself.

Arrangements for a Good Day.

Arrangements for the auction sale at Oak Bay are being pushed forward rapidly, and it is expected that they will be on a much larger scale than has ever been known in Victoria. The Victoria City Band has been engaged to play at the Pavilion nearly all the afternoon, and the tramway company will run special cars at the ordinary fare of 5 cents. Permission will be given to persons desiring to erect stalls, booths, etc., to put them on the beach or on the property owned by the Oak Bay Improvement Co. Messrs. Richards & Cuthbert, the Broad St. Auctioneers, have the matter in hand, and anticipate a big crowd if the weather is favorable.

The Work of Greedy Flames.

Fire, about a fortnight ago, completely destroyed the new mill at Metlakahtla lately erected by Mr. W. Duncan. The mill took fire during the night, after a heavy day's work, and when discovered had too secure a hold upon the building to be successfully fought. The building stood on piles and when the fire had destroyed the superstructure the remains fell with a crash into the water. New machinery of great value was totally destroyed and is now lying at the bottom of the inlet. The mill had been running two years and was built in place of one that had also been destroyed by fire. It was uninsured, the loss falling upon Mr. William Duncan, the sole owner. The newly cut material for 20,000 salmon cases, together with lumber for the new church were consumed, the total loss being about $30,000.

Drowned Near Plumper's Pass.

Mrs. Pope and her infant of 18 months, were drowned off Village Bay, near Plumper's Pass, yesterday morning at 11. The steamer Rithet, bound for Westminster, stopped in response to a signal to take on a boat load of passengers at Village Bay. There being a strong wind and rough sea, the steamer was backed up a little to meet the boat, which got under the wheel, was broken up and the four occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Pope, their infant and Adolphus Deacon, of Mayne Island, were thrown into the water. Deacon was pulled aboard at once, Pope was injured about the head and body by the paddles, but was rescued by means of a life buoy. Mrs. Pope and the child sank soon after the accident and a search is now being made for their bodies. Pope and Deacon were landed at Village Bay. Mrs. Pope was a daughter of the proprietor of the Summer Hotel, Mayne Island.

TO RECALL DEBENTURES.

Ald. Lovell Gives Notice of an Important Resolution he Will Move.

Ald. Lovell has given notice that at the next meeting of the council he will move the following resolution:

That the council desiring to take advantage of the provisions of section 13 of the city of Victoria Act, 1892, hereby authorizes the Mayor to issue debentures for £20,000 sterling payable 50 years from date in London, England, or Montreal, Canada, either or both, bearing interest at four and a half per centum per annum payable in London, England, and to sell and dispose of the said debentures and recall the debentures issued under the provisions of by-laws 125 and 126 passed by the council on the 2nd of December, 1890, entitled the public market site by-law and the public market building by-law, 1890, and the treasurer is hereby authorized to apply the proceeds of the sterling debentures so issued in repurchasing from the British Columbia Corporation Company, Limited, the debentures for $105,000 under the terms contained in the correspondence between Robt. Ward, Esq., and Jno. Grant as Mayor of Victoria.

DRUGGED AND ROBBED.

T. P. McHugh, of Calgary, Relieved of a Gold Watch And $300.

This morning T. P. McHugh, the well known horseman of Calgary, who is stopping at the Dominion Hotel, awakened to find that he had been robbed of over $300 and a watch and chain, worth another hundred.

Mr. McHugh attended the races yesterday and won money in several pools. A well-dressed fair young man of heavy build, gave him several tips, and as a result he won $96 in one pool and several smaller sums, half of which earnings he agreed to give this young sport. During the evening he went around town with Mr. Gregg, an Ontario horseman, and late at night went to the Delmonico to draw his pool earnings. The young man who gave him the tips during the day was there to draw his share of the profits, and the three finally left the saloon after midnight; and on the invitation of this unknown young man visited a certain house where he assured McHugh they could get good drinks and have a good time.

Neither McHugh nor Gregg know the house they went to. There were women there, and music and wine. McHugh has a recollection that about 3 o'clock he started for the Dominion Hotel, but how he got there he does not know. He was found lying on the landing at the head of the first stairway early in the morning and taken to his room. It was then he discovered that he had been robbed. A large pocket-book containing two $50 bills and $200 in bills of smaller denomination and gold, which he kept in an inside pocket in his vest was missing, also about $30 in $5 gold pieces and silver left loose in his trousers pocket, and a fine gold watch and chain, worth $100, was also gone. Only a 50 cent piece and four Canadian cent pieces were left him. The purse besides the money also contained some papers of value only to Mr. McHugh.

Officer Abel was notified about 7:30 o'clock of the robbery and proceeded to investigate, and he with Sergt. Hawton have the case in hand.

Mr. McHugh is certain he was watched by someone who knew what money he had, and was drugged, as he did not drink enough to make him drunk.

TO RENDER ASSISTANCE.

Despatch of H.M.S. Champion to the Scene of the Quadra Disaster.

H. M. S. Champion left Esquimalt harbor this morning at dawn bound for Rose harbor, Moresby Island, where the wrecked government steamer Quadra lies. The Champion's people will make an examination of the rock upon which the Quadra came to grief, and also of the whole channel, for the purpose of having all depths and obstacles properly marked on the chart. Assistance will be rendered if necessary. The Champion will return about June 1. It is probable that the terms quoted by Captain McCoskrie of the wrecking steamer Mascotte will be accepted by the Marine Department at Ottawa, to which the figures were telegraphed last night. The Mascotte is all ready to leave at an hour's notice. Professor Macoun of the Behring Sea commission has obtained permission to go north to the Pribyloff Islands on H. M. S. Melpomene, June 1, to resume his labors, interrupted by the accident to the Quadra. Professor Macoun and Captain Gaudin occupied their cabins the first night after the steamer had been beached at Rose harbor. The second night the steamer settled further into the water submerging the cabins; fortunately for themselves Captain Gaudin and Professor Macoun were ashore. When the Quadra struck the rock one of the seamen was taking soundings on the opposite side. The chart shows from eight to thirteen fathoms near the spot. The surrounding country is very wild, and inhabited only by a few Indians. It was while proceeding through the channel to an Indian village that the Quadra encountered the rock.

Captain Lewis to-day received a dispatch from the Minister of Marine instructing him to go ahead and do his best towards the raising of the Quadra. The Mascotte will leave for Rose Harbor to-night with a full wrecking outfit.

A YACHT CLUB.

Victoria is Soon to Boast of a First Class Aquatic Organization.

Encouraged by the success of the late races, a number of well known Victorians have decided to form a yacht club on a scale commensurate with the size and importance of the city. They will hold a meeting at an early date and decide upon their course of action. The intention is to organize at once and if possible build a swift boat to fly the V.Y.C. colors at the regattas across the Straits on the Fourth of July. The yachting men intend to take all the yachts in Victoria, fast sailer's and tubs, and go across to Anacortes, Whatcom and Port Angeles to compete in the Fourth of July regattas in return for the fine manner in which the Americans turned out to the races here. An Englishman who has had extended experience in yachting on the Solent and the Clyde, said to a TIMES reporter to-day that it was a mystery to him how, in such a city as Victoria with its wealth, athletic youth and enthusiasm in all kinds of sports, no yachting club had ever been formed. He considered the Straits the finest yachting stretch in the world, with the gulf forming a piece of water incomparably better than any he had ever seen. There is always wind, more or less, the sea never becomes so rough that good yachts would have to scud for shelter, and lastly, a magnificent trianguiar course could be laid off from Beacon Hill across the Straits, so that during the whole race the motions of the yacht could be distinctly seen. The present project is backed by men of substantial means and possessed also of all the necessary enthusiasm, without which the money is of little account.

THE PUEBLA'S DOPE CARGO.

Two Thousand Pounds Said to be Aboard the Steamer—The Stewardess Arrested.

For some time past it has been known, although it could never be proved, that a couple of the crew of the steamer City of Puebla were carrying opium on every trip, and the officers have on several occasions been warned.

Yesterday a dispatch was received by the TIMES stating that the Puebla was suspected, and that a search party had been sent out to meet her. When this was made known those who were in the ring felt a little nervous, although, as one who knows said, the officers would hunt a long while before they would find the Puebla's cargo of dope.

It is understood that 2250 pounds of opium was shipped from Victoria on the last trip. This is, from the latest accounts, still safe in its hiding place on the steamer, and if it cannot be landed in the Bay City, it will be brought back to Victoria.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—One arrest for opium smuggling has been made on the City of Puebla, that of Mrs. Raenbach, stewardess of the steamer. One of the inspectors was ordered to watch the women connected with the steamer, as they had been on very friendly terms with the firemen, and would probably try to smuggle some opium if there was any on board. Mrs. Raenbach owned the basket, and when it was taken from her and searched it was found to have a double bottom and in the space thus formed there were 10 five tael cans of opium carefully packed. Two more cans were found in her clothing. Mrs. Raenbach was turned over to Marshal Lang.

The Cowboy of Today.

The first cowboys I ever saw greatly disappointed me by their appearance. All that I have seen since that time have disappointed me equally. If I were to write a play in which there was a cowboy character I would dress him up in fringed leather breeches and a buckskin coat, a big drab Spanish hat as stiff as a board and as big as the top of a washtub, in dainty boots and bead worked gloves; his pistols should be of mother-of-pearl, and none but the best Cheyenne saddle should he sit on—for of such is the cowbow of the flash literature which has immortalized him; and if the true cowboy does not know enough to live up to his own china I would ignore the fact. And yet these first cowboys I saw in Montana were a very ordinary looking lot of young depot loungers, peculiar only because they wore big flat brimmed hats and because they had a long line of bronchos fettered to a hitching rail near by.—Julian Ralph in Harper's Weekly.

THE SCARLET LETTER

BY NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

CHAPTER VI.

THE ELF CHILD AND THE MINISTER.

Governor Bellingham, in a loose gown and easy cap—such as elderly gentlemen loved to endue themselves with in their domestic privacy—walked foremost and appeared to be showing off his estate and expatiating on his projected improvements. The wide circumference of an elaborate ruff beneath his gray beard, in the antiquated fashion of King James' reign, caused his head to look not a little like that of John the Baptist in a charger. The impression made by his aspect, so rigid and severe and frost-bitten with more than autumnal age, was hardly in keeping with the appliances of worldly enjoyment wherewith he had evidently done his utmost to surround himself. * * *

Behind the governor and Mr. Wilson came two other guests, one the Reverend Arthur Dimmesdale, whom the reader may remember as having taken a brief and reluctant part in the scene of Hester Prynne's, disgrace, and in close companionship with him old Roger Chillingworth, a person of great skill in physic, who for two or three years past had been settled in the town. It was understood that this learned man was the physician as well as friend of the young minister, whose health had severely suffered of late by his too unreserved self sacrifice to the labors and duties of the pastoral relation.

The governor, in advance of his visitors, ascended one or two steps and, throwing open the leaves of the great hall window, found himself close to little Pearl. The shadow of the curtain fell on Hester Prynne and partially concealed her.

"What have we here?" said Governor Bellingham, looking with surprise at the scarlet little figure before him. "I profess I have never seen the like since my days of vanity, in old King James' time, when I was wont to esteem it a high favor to be admitted to a court mask! There used to be a swarm of these small apparitions in holiday time, and we called them children of the Lord of Misrule. But how got such a guest into my hall?"

"Aye, indeed!" cried good old Mr. Wilson. "What little bird of scarlet plumage may this be? Methinks I have seen just such figures, when the sun has been shining through a richly painted window and tracing out the golden and crimson images across the floor. But that was in the old land. Prithee, young one, who art thou, and what has ailed thy mother to bedizen thee in this strange fashion? Art thou a Christian child—ha? Dost know thy catechism? Or art thou one of those naughty elfs or fairies, whom we thought to have left behind us, with other relics of Papistry, in merry old England?"

"I am mother's child," answered the scarlet vision, "and my name is Pearl."

"Pearl? Ruby, rather, or Coral or Red Rose, at the very least, judging from thy hue," responded the old minister, putting forth his hand in a vain attempt to pat little Pearl on the cheek. "But where is this mother of thine? Ah! I see," he added, and turning to Governor Bellingham whispered, "This is the self same child of whom we have held speech together, and behold here the unhappy woman, Hester Prynne, her mother."

"Sayest thou so?" cried the governor. "Nay, we might have judged that such a child's mother must needs be a scarlet woman and a worthy type of her of Babylon. But she comes at a good time, and we will look into this matter forthwith."

Governor Bellingham stepped through the window into the hall, followed by his three guests.

"Hester Prynne," said he, fixing his naturally stern regard on the wearer of the scarlet letter, "there hath been much question concerning thee of late. The point hath been weightily discussed whether we, that are of authority and influence, do well discharge our consciences by trusting an immortal soul, such as there is in yonder child, to the guidance of one who hath stumbled and fallen amid the pitfalls of this world. Speak, thou, the child's own mother! Were it not, thinkest thou, for thy little one's temporal and eternal welfare that she be taken out of thy charge, and clad soberly, and disciplined strictly, and instructed in the truths of heaven and earth? What canst thou do for the child in this kind?"

"I can teach my little Pearl what I have learned from this," answered Hester Prynne, laying her finger on the red token.

"Woman, it is thy badge of shame!" replied the stern magistrate. "It is because of the stain which that letter indicates that we would transfer thy child to other hands."

"Nevertheless," said the mother calmly, though growing more pale, "this badge hath taught me—it daily teaches me—it is teaching me at this moment—lessons whereof my child may be the wiser and better, albeit they can profit nothing to myself."

"We will judge warily," said Bellingham, "and look well what we are about to do. Good Master Wilson, I pray you examine this Pearl—since that is her name—and see whether she hath had such Christian nurture as befits a child of her age."

The old minister seated himself in an armchair and made an effort to draw Pearl betwixt his knees. But the child, unaccustomed to the touch or familiarity of any but her mother, escaped through the open window and stood on the upper step, looking like a wild tropical bird of rich plumage, ready to take flight into the upper air. Mr. Wilson, not a little astonished at this outbreak—for he was a grandfatherly sort of personage, and usually a vast favorite with children—essayed, however, to proceed with the examination.

"Pearl," said he with great solemnity, "thou must take heed to instruction, that so, in due season, thou mayest wear in thy bosom the pearl of great price. Canst thou tell me, my child, who made thee?"

Now Pearl knew well enough who made her; for Hester Prynne, the daughter of a pious home, very soon after her talk with the child about her Heavenly Father, had begun to inform her of those truths which the human spirit, at whatever stage of immaturity, imbibes with such eager interest. Pearl therefore, so large were the attainments of her three years' lifetime, could have borne a fair examination in the "New England Primer," or the first column of the Westminster catechisms, although unacquainted with the outward form of either of those celebrated works. But that perversity which all children have more or less of, and of which little Pearl had a tenfold portion now, at the most inopportune moment, took thorough possession of her and closed her lips, or impelled her to speak words amiss. After putting her finger in her mouth, with many ungracious refusals to answer good Mr. Wilson's question, the child finally announced that she had not been made at all, but had been plucked by her mother off the bush of wild roses that grew by the prison door.

This fantasy was probably suggested by the near proximity of the governor's red roses as Pearl stood outside of the window, together with her recollection of the pink rosebush which she had passed in coming hither.

Old Roger Chillingworth, with a smile on his face, whispered something in the young clergyman's ear. Hester Prynne looked at the man of skill, and even then, with her fate hanging in the balance, was startled to perceive what a change had come over his features—how much uglier they were, how his dark complexion seemed to have grown duskier and his figure more misshappen—since the days when she had familiarly known him. She met his eyes for an instant, but was immediately constrained to give all her attention to the scene now going forward.

"This is awful!" cried the governor, slowly recovering from the astonishment into which Pearl's response had thrown him. "Here is a child of three years old and she cannot tell who made her! Without question she is equally in the dark as to her soul—its present depravity and future destiny! Methinks, gentlemen, we need inquire no further."

Hester caught hold of Pearl and drew her forcibly into her arms, confronting the old Puritan magistrate with almost a fierce expression. Alone in the world, cast off by it and with this sole treasure to keep her heart alive, she felt that she possessed indefeasible rights against the world, and was ready to defend them to the death.

"God gave me the child!" cried she. "He gave her in requital of all things else, which ye had taken from me. She is my happiness!—she is my torture, none the less! Pearl keeps me here in life! Pearl punishes me too! See ye not she is the scarlet letter, only capable of being loved, and so endowed with a million fold the power of retribution for my sin? Ye shall not take her! I will die first!"

"My poor woman," said the not unkind old minister, "the child shall be well cared for!—far better than thou canst do it."

"God gave her into my keeping," repeated Hester Prynne, raising her voice almost to a shriek. "I will not give her up!" And here, by a sudden impulse, she turned to the young clergyman, Mr. Dimmesdale, at whom up to this moment she had seemed hardly so much as once to direct her eyes. "Speak thou for me!" cried she. "Thou wast my pastor and hadst charge of my soul and knowest me better than these men can. I will not lose the child! Speak for me! Thou knowest—for thou hast sympathies which these men lack! Thou knowest what is in my heart and what are a mother's rights, and how much the stronger they are when that mother has but her child and the scarlet letter! Look thou to it! I will not lose the child! Look to it!"

GLADSTONE'S GREAT SPEECH.

The Government's Irish Local Government Bill Badly Riddled.

LONDON, May 26.—Mr. Gladstone in his speech on Balfour's Local Government Bill for Ireland said: Balfour was in a singular position in discussing a bill which it was improbable would be proceeded with. In 1886 Chamberlain and Lord Hartington promised Ireland everything short of an independent parliament. Now all these promises are dissolved in the present meagre bill which stamped Ireland with inequality as compared with England and Scotland, and falsified the miserable relics of the solemn pledges by which the present majority was obtained by the Government in 1886. Lord Salisbury's recent language distinctly encouraged civil war. Definite explanations ought to be given whether the Cabinet generally is of the same opinion as the premier. Did the ministers believe that the people of Ulster would rebel against the decision of parliament, or that the employment of the powers of the crown to suppress such a rebellion would be such an outrage as would rend society in two? If Lord Salisbury's language meant anything, it was a plain incitement of a few misguided men to resort to violence to resist the authority of parliament. These conditions the Irish members had offered to them in the stinted gift of the present bill. The speaker explained at length the leading provisions of the bill, and said it stamped Ireland with inequality and inferiority by withholding from her the power and privileges that obtained in the history of the country.

Mr. Gladstone pointed out that the bill was not even the minimum of the promises with which tory leders had kept their government in existence for the last six years. These promises, he said, had gone far beyond promises of mere local institutions. He reviewed the utterances of Lord Hartington and Joseph Chamberlain, who, he said, had pledged themselves to everything short of an independent parliament. Mr. Goschen (never famous for his liberality) and Lord Randolph Churchill had promised Irish local government concurrent and equal with local government in Great Britain. The people of Ireland, however, were fighting for something more than local government. Then returning to his attack upon Lord Salisbury and his Ulster speech Mr. Gladstone said: "It is imperative that the country should know what defense it is proposed to offer for the use of such language by such an exalted person. This language was a distinct encouragement to a few misguided men, capable in their fanaticism and folly of embodying in deeds the prime minister's words."

From this attack on Lord Salisbury he passed again to a scathing denunciation of the measure. "Every defect of local government in Great Britain," he said, "had been embodied in this bill, magnified and exaggerated, and stripped of every safeguard that might curtail its mischief. This is the bill offered to our sister country as the final boon of a generous government, to magnify their adequate sense of Irish wants and their disposition to outbid Nationalists for Home Rule, by offering Ireland something more beneficial. You are like the man who, giving an entertainment one night, sent round to every house in the neighborhood to ask for bones, waste refuse and washings and then put them together and served them to his guests at a banquet. That is jest in this country, but not jest to Ireland. It is the royalty in the case before us now.

This bill has conferred a great obligation upon the Liberal party. It tends to clear the issue before the country. It gives the people the power of measuring exactly the value of those splendid promises of 1886. If, with such evidence as this before them, they allow themselves to be misled again it will be their own fault, but they will not be misled. [Cheers and cries of hear, hear.]

"They have arrived at a tolerably fair estimate of this method of proceeding already, and if anything were wanted to complete their knowledge, this bill will supply it to them. This measure is undoubtedly marked from end to end with the stamp of inequality, adverse to Ireland. Is this an old or a new question? Go back to the period of the union of the two countries and the arguments then used by the opponents of the union. They entreated the ruling party not to do uway with the ancient historical institutions, not to sacrifice national life, but to grant some scope and freedom. The more candid supporters of the union replied:

"It is true that you are losing much in sacrificing your Parliament and in surrendering your traditions. You are losing much which you dearly cherish to your heart's core, but only look at the numerous advantages you will obtain. You are going to obtain a position in which you will have irrevocably, under the stamp and seal of the greatest country in the world, absolute equality of the laws with Great Britain."

"Equality of laws was the sole essence of the speeches. It was adequate compensation to tender Ireland for her sacrifices. Where is that equality today? How is the expression in the bill before us? Are we to say that Ireland is wrong in rejecting this bill? The stamp of inequality is the brand of degradation. If Ireland were capable of accepting as a redemption of the pledges so frequently made her, a measure bearing that stamp, she would be unworthy of the high hopes and aspirations which she has so long cherished; unworthy of the great men who led her in times of adversity; unworthy of that happier, better destiny which we trust and believe, and, so far as the future is open, are convinced and know she is about to accomplish."

Mr. Gladstone spoke with all his pristine vigor, his voice was sonorous and his figure erect. When he turned to the Tory benches with the words, "Where is that equality now?" his eyes flashed and his voice rang through the house with all the strength of his youth. A melancholy incident of his speech was his effort to read a part of it. He was unable to see distinctly, and after stumbling a minute or two handed his notes to John Morley, who read them for him.

Balfour responded to Gladstone. He analyzed and explained Lord Salisbury's remarks, putting upon them a more favorable interpretation than that advanced by Mr. Gladstone. Then, coming down to the matter of the bill, he said it was substantially the same as the English and Scotch bill. If there was a difference it was due to peculiar conditions prevailing in Ireland. The bill was opposed solely because it would not serve the purpose of Irish agitators. What was the real aim of home rulers? It was separation. (Cheers.) The Government believed that local government would be a great boon to a population knowing how to use it. The Government desired to confer this boon on Ireland. The issues were clear on their side. It rested with Gladstone to make his clear. (Hear, hear.) The Government had shown that it still earnestly desired to accomplish what it aimed to do. What Gladstone desired to do no human being knew.

The bill passed to a second reading by a vote of 330 to 247, amid great Conservative cheers. They were delighted at the solid majority. Only two Gladstonians voted with the Government. The Liberals were disappointed at the result, blaming it on the absence of so many Irish members. Out of the 29 Parnellites only 16 voted, and out of 55 McCarthyites only 38 voted.

KING OSCAR'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

The King of Denmark To-Day Celebrates Fiftieth Year of Married Life.

A Long and Happy Reign—The Parents of the Princess of Wales, the Czarina, Etc.

ON THE 26th of May the king and queen of Denmark will celebrate their golden wedding. From a political point of view the event is of little importance, but as a family celebration it will command the attention of the world. Americans care little for kings and queens, but brave men and true women are more admired and better appreciated in the United States than in any other part of the world. Under such circumstances I do not much care to write on this particular occasion of Christian IX and Louisa, as king and queen of Denmark, and all the Wendes and Goths. They are only very small potentates among the crowned heads of Europe, and their country is not much larger than Ohio and has less inhabitants than that state; but I like to write of their standing as man and wife, as father and mother. As such they are entitled to our highest esteem and have set a shining example to all the world.

De la Bruyere once said of kings, "Je ne manque rien a un roi qui la douceur de la vie privee," which means that kings have everything except the sweetness of family life. In King Christian's case history very emphatically contradicts this utterance of the great French moralist. The king's public life has been one constant trouble ever since he ascended the throne on Nov. 15, 1863. As a matter of fact he has been one of the most tried sovereigns of Europe. The war with Austria and Prussia cost him Sleswick-Holstein and Lauenburg, and he has been in chronic feud with his parliament, and ministerial crises seem perennial in the little kingdom. He detests democratic ideas, but his subjects adhere to them and consequently as a ruler they do not love him. As man and father, however, they adore him. The popular ditty of which the refrain runs, "It is a fine family, that of King Christian," had no derisive meaning when the populace sang it beneath the royal windows on a raw November evening in 1888.

As husband and wife the royal Danish couple are among those fortunate parents whose children are a credit and honor to them, settling in life and adorning exalted positions with a grace and dignity which would be recognized even in a republic, where honesty, frugality, temperance and virtue are regarded as the qualities which befit a noble character. Among the daughters of the royal couple we think first of the beautiful Princess of Wales; then of the czarina of Russia, whose stately lot involves so much solicitude that no simple American wife need envy her crown and throne; of Thyre, the duchess of Cumberland, tall and handsome as a lily. The sons are Prince Frederick, heir apparent to the throne of Denmark; George, king of Greece, and Prince Waldemar, the sailor. The latter also could wear a crown like his father and brothers and sisters but he did not care to. His kingdom is the seas, and when the Bulgarians asked him to step on their throne he wisely declined.

The private lives of the king and queen have been blameless and irreproachable. As parents the Danish sovereigns have been blessed with all the happiness that heaven can bestow on mortal beings.

The king is the fourth son of Duke William of Sleswick-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glucksburg and was born April 8, 1818. Like many other German princes he had little of this world's riches. As a poor princeling he chose his wife, not so much for her beauty as for qualities which would insure a happy future. He married Princess Louisa, daughter of the Landgrave of Hesse-Cassel, on May 26, 1842, at Copenhagen, she being his senior by one year. They were a handsome couple and much admired. He manly, tall, erect; she fair and sweet like a precious flower of womanhood.

Many tales are told of how their daughters, now sovereigns themselves, made their own dresses, trimmed their own hats and took their turns in keeping house, so as to relieve their royal mother. At that time it was not unusual to see them driving out all squeezed in one carriage—father, mother and six children. The king was then a superior officer in the Danish army, and lived with his family partly in Copenhagen and partly in Jugenheim and Frankfort-on-the-Main. It is said that Duke Christian, who at that period was not even nominated presumptive successor to the Danish crown, increased his small income by giving drawing lessons. Once a gypsy happened to meet the three young princesses in Jugenheim and insisted on telling them their fortunes.

Alexandra was to wear a double crown of queen and empress, Dagmar would rule over a vast empire, and Thyre would have a queenly title, but no kingdom. The three young girls laughed heartily, and little did they dream then that that gypsy told the truth. Today they know that she did, and none of the sisters has ever forgotten this strange incident in their lives. Though the home of Duke Christian was devoid of luxury and splendor, yet a happier household was not to be found all over Europe. How happy in fact the family life of the royal couple must have been is proved by the eagerness shown by all the absent children to come home.

King Christian and Queen Louisa have thirty-six grandchildren, all of whom look longingly forward for the approach of the annual visit to their grandparents. There the grown up and little ones enjoy a life of unlimited freedom, and it is refreshing to behold how well all these English, Russian, Greek and Danish cousins harmonize.

The queen is not only a sovereign, but also a queen among women. Indeed King Christian was a fortunate man when he conquered the love of so noble and good a bride. Though she is seventy-five years old now, she does not look more than fifty-six. She is still handsome, and with regard to brightness, good judgment and gifted nature few women, if any, can excel her. But more precious than all these qualities and a greater treasure than the crown she wears is her heart of gold. If any woman is beloved in Denmark it is she. Her graciousness of manner and her kindly looks win the hearts of all.

Few ladies in private life are as active as this queen. She rises early and attends to almost everything personally in her household. Her day is occupied from morning until night. Besides, she keeps up an extensive correspondence with her three absent daughters and her son, King George of Greece. "No one can write nicer letters than mamma," says her royal highness the Princess of Wales.

Her leisure hours the queen devotes to music and painting, and she does much to encourage these arts. She prefers painting to music, however, and is herself an artist of no mean ability. Many a poor village church possesses an altar piece painted for it by her. Though she has a thorough understanding of music, her deafness somewhat interferes with her enjoyment of musical sounds, a weakness which unfortunately also affects the Princess of Wales.

Foreign artists are always welcome in Copenhagen—the Venice of the north,

DAGMAR. ALEXANDRA. THYRE. FREDERICK. WALDEMAR. KING GEORGE.

as it is called abroad. Both king and queen seldom miss a concert or a "premiere."

During summer the court of Denmark offers a sight probably the most unique in the world. Bernstorff is the name of the royal summer residence.

It is situated a couple of miles from Copenhagen and near to the deer park Dyshaus, of which all Danes are very proud. The queen is especially fond of staying there, but when all the children and grandchildren come visiting, Bernstorff is too small and the court moves to Fredensborg, near Elsinore, the spot to which cling so many associations of the ill fated Prince Hamlet.

The castle was built a century and a half ago by Frederick IV on the shores of Lake Esrom in commemoration of the peace between Denmark and Sweden. At this idyllic sylvan spot even the czar and the czarina are able for awhile to forget their anxieties. When Fredensborg is filled with visitors, excursions to Copenhagen are frequent, and the hearts of the Danes beat high when they see the empress of all the Russians with her sister, the Princess of Wales, and her brother, the king of the Hellenes, walking quietly about the streets shopping. The emperor of Russia prefers the country, and being more of a sportsman, like his royal father-in-law, both ride, walk and shoot frequently together.

One of the greatest delights of the king is to play with his little grandchildren, and he can often be seen seated in a cramped up position in a diminutive pony carriage trusting himself to the care of a very youthful coachman. After dinner Queen Louisa will generally induce her daughters to join her at the piano, and often they have played eight handed on two pianos.

Etiquette and ceremony are banished and the family leads the pleasant life of grands seigneurs seeking relaxation from worldly obligations. Early in January the court moves into Copenhagen, and from that time begins the season at the capital, which lasts until the 8th of April, the king's birthday. During this time the king can often be seen walking in the streets with no other attendants than two collie dogs, one of which is a present from Queen Victoria. In the evening when there are no court receptions the king and queen visit the opera or a concert.

NANAIMO NEWS.

At the Rifle Range—The Single Scull Race—The Calico Ball.

NANAIMO, May 26.—The new rifle range was formally opened yesterday by Mrs. Haslam at 1:30 p.m., in the presence of a large concourse of people. In the 200 yard range, Mr. W. Young was the winner with a score of 21 out of a possible 25; Sergt. Hart second with 20, and Private G. E. High 19 for third place. The other matches will be continued to-day.

The race for the handsome silver cup presented by Sloan & Scott, open to amateurs for a single sculling match of three miles, did not come off last night. The event has been postponed for one week to admit of outside talent. The handsome trophy is well worth trying for, so it is to be hoped quite a number will enter for the race. The cup must be won two years in succession and the match will take place on both occasions under the management of the regatta committee on May 24th.

The grand calico ball given in the Opera house last night, under the auspices of St. Paul's Institute, was without doubt the most successful affiair of the kind ever given in the city. The attendance was large and nearly the whole of the dancers stopped until the ball was over, which was 4 o'clock this morning. The Diamond city orchestra furnished the music. The refreshments were served by Misses Bate and King, who deserve great commendation for the services rendered. The dresses worn by both ladies and gentlemen were very becoming, and gave the affair a picturesque appearance.

Mr. G. Holmes, a gentleman who recently arrived in this city, has succeeded in leasing five acres of land adjoining Halliburton street, which he intends to lay out for a nursery garden where he expects to grow all kinds of flowers and fruit trees. Mr. Holmes is a practical gardener and was for 19 years connected with one of the largest eastern nurseries.

Arrangements are on foot for a foot race between J. Sluggett and H. Peck, for a dash of 200 yards for $500.

The shipping in the harbor still continues to increase and so far everything portends to a prosperous summer. More miners are daily being started to work.

A "strawberry festival" is to be given on the "Green" on June 14, under the auspices of the ladies of St. Paul's church. The proceeds will go towards the church fund.

The electric motor was to-day, for the first time, run in the Esplanade shaft, and the trial was in every way satisfactory.

DR. KEELEY'S GREAT WEALTH.

The Chloride of Gold Discoverer Enormously Rich—His Great Secret.

CHICAGO, May 26.—The announcement that Dr. Leslie E. Keeley, who is now on the ocean en route for Liverpool, has disposed of his gold cure rights for England and a portion of the continent in consideration of a cash bonus of a half million dollars with prospective percentages, which, if the hopes of the English syndicate are realized, will net him a half million or two in addition, has tended to attract renewed interest to the ethical side of the Dwight method, and the opinion is largely growing that the time has arrived when Keeley will be justified in making known his formula to the medical profession of the country, or at least putting it into the possession of the medical staffs of our hospitals. When this point of view was originally advanced by members of the medical profession it was urged in reply that they were simply jealous of his powers as a discoverer, and envious of the results which he had achieved. To-day, however, the profession is not alone in its opinion. The same view is entertained by large numbers of people who have no direct or indirect interest in the matter, and including many of those who are graduates of Dwight, and who have hitherto been among Dr. Keeley's warmest champions. According to one who is supposed to know Dr. Keeley is to-day making money faster than anybody in the country, save, perhaps, the Astors, Goulds and Vanderbilts alone. His present fortune is placed at between three and four million dollars, nearly all accumulated within three or four years, while from the main institution at Dwight, and the subsidies and royalties which he has received and is receiving from the various branches organized during the past year through the country it is estimated that his net income cannot be less at present than $50,000 per month, or at least half a million a year. He is also something of an autocrat in his way, for he has established two weekly organs as special advocates of the gold cure, and makes it compulsory on every branch and institute throughout the country to subscribe for one hundred or more copies of each issue. Whether Keeley proposes to forever maintain secrecy regarding his formula and to go on piling up wealth until his fortune is colossal, out of the dram-shop wrecks of the land, only himself probably knows, but it has been strongly urged by those who believe that, apart from considerations of humanity, the fortune that he has already accumulated is large enough to warrant him in giving his secret to the world, and that an excellent precedent is afforded him in medical annals in the matter of vaccination and numerous other medical discoveries extending back year by year for nearly a century. Quite a number of Dwight graduates and others in this city, New York and other places, who hold to this view, are seriously talking of inaugurating a movement, national in its character and looking to the holding of a national convention for the purpose of requesting the Dwight physician, upon his return from Europe, to acquaint the medical profession in the United States in the interest of humanity with the secret of his discovery.
